Controlling a page break in a table row

Whether a table row should break or not can be controlled by specifying keep-together.within-page="always" to <fo:table-row>.

The page breaks in a table row.

This is a title of the table.

Column 1 Header	Column 2 Header
1. Cell text in single table 2. Cell text in single table 3. Cell text in single table 4. Cell text in single table 5. Cell text in single table 6. Cell text in single table	1. Cell text in single table 2. Cell text in single table 3. Cell text in single table 4. Cell text in single table 5. Cell text in single table 6. Cell text in single table
7. Cell text in single table 8. Cell text in single table	7. Cell text in single table 8. Cell text in single table

Column 1 Header	Column 2 Header
9. Cell text in single table	9. Cell text in single table
10. Cell text in single table	10. Cell text in single table
11. Cell text in single table	11. Cell text in single table
12. Cell text in single table	12. Cell text in single table
13. Cell text in single table	13. Cell text in single table
Column 1 Footer	Column 2 Footer

The page doesn't break in a table row.

This is a title of the table.

Column 1 Header	Column 2 Header
1. Cell text in single table	1. Cell text in single table
2. Cell text in single table	2. Cell text in single table
3. Cell text in single table	3. Cell text in single table
4. Cell text in single table	4. Cell text in single table
5. Cell text in single table	5. Cell text in single table
6. Cell text in single table	6. Cell text in single table

7. Cell text in single table	7. Cell text in single table
8. Cell text in single table	8. Cell text in single table
9. Cell text in single table	9. Cell text in single table
10. Cell text in single table	10. Cell text in single table
11. Cell text in single table	11. Cell text in single table
12. Cell text in single table	12. Cell text in single table
13. Cell text in single table	13. Cell text in single table
Column 1 Footer	Column 2 Footer