The leader-alignment property of the HTML span element styled as a leader is used to determine the positioning of the glyphs that make up a leader. Antenna House has extended the value of this property to add the values center, start, and end using the `-ah-leader-alignment` CSS property.

CSS: default
`leader()` behavior

A. . . . . B

CSS: -ah-leader-alignment: start;

A. . . . . B

CSS: -ah-leader-alignment: end;

A . . . . B

CSS: -ah-leader-alignment: center;

A . . . . B